ROBIN SHARMA is a globally respected humanitarian who, for over a quarter of a century, has been devoted to helping human beings realize their native gifts. One of the top leadership and personal mastery experts in the world, he advises companies such as NASA, Nike, Microsoft, Unilever, GE, FedEx, HP, Starbucks, Yale University, PWC, IBM Watson and the Young Presidents’ Organization. His #1 international bestsellers have sold millions of copies in more than ninety-two languages and dialects, making him one of the most widely read authors alive.

A groundbreaking and timely book from the international bestselling author of The 5AM Club

The Wealth Money Can’t Buy will hardwire in a completely new way of measuring wealth. We inhabit a world where the common idea of success requires you to hustle and grind, to sacrifice your mental, emotional, physical and spiritual health, and to miss out on the finest times with those you love to scale a mountaintop of financial fortune, fame and material possessions.

Yet money is only one form of wealth. A truly abundant life includes seven other forms of wealth. With proven tactics, Sharma will help you to stop chasing the wrong kinds of riches—which can waste years—so you can get directly on track to making a life you absolutely adore.
PEARLY EVERLASTING

A heartwarming story about a young girl and her ‘brother’ Bruno, a bear, who grow up together in a logging camp during the Great Depression

Set amidst severe poverty, harsh climate, and the perilous existence of loggers, Ursula’s family and the lumberjacks form a close-knit community, who accept and embrace the tame young bear in their camp. But when an evil camp supervisor is found dead in a ditch, Bruno is blamed, and then kidnapped by the supervisor’s nephew, who sells him to an animal trader. Ursula, now a teenager, has no choice but to find Bruno and sets off on a hazardous solo journey through the forest to rescue him.

The narrative is sown with folklore and superstition, and a whimsical rendering of the remote setting creates a magical veneer to this enchanted adventure story.
An aching love story and literary debut for readers of Britt Bennett, NoViolet Bulawayo and Yaa Ghasi

On a bus moving across a rural landscape, town to dusty town, two young people are escaping with their lives. She has committed a crime for which there will be retribution. He is staggering from a sudden loss.

These two will find each other and attempt a new way forward. But the talons of the past have dug deep and the wounds have not yet healed. Moving back and forth in time, from the fragile bonds of this new relationship to the lives they lived before, The Ones We Loved tenderly weaves both myth and memory. It’s a story about generational living written in the rhythms of oral retellings practiced by Zimbabwe’s Shona ethnic group, where the soundscape of a ngano (story)— its melodies, pauses, lifts and stops—are a call and response with the listener.

The novel also pulls from literary stewards of Black Americana such as Toni Morrison and Zora Neale Hurston, shaping characters whose way of loving is inherited and channeled into the lands they inhabit, the people they care for and the present they cling to.
A coming-of-age story that examines race, immigration, duty and friendship

In Fall 1913, thirteen-year-old Hoi Wing Woo, the son of a scholar, is forced to give up his dream of an education when he is sent to work in a Chinese laundry in Canada. He is immediately thrust into relentless, mind-numbing toil, washing clothes by hand for sixteen hours a day, six days a week. Without knowledge of English or western societal customs, he faces a daily onslaught of taunts and physical violence from gangs of local bullies. He must also contend with the Asiatic Exclusion League, which seeks to send the Chinese back to China. Isolated and friendless, his greatest fear is that he will grow up to be uneducated and illiterate, knowing little more than how to darn socks or hem pants.

But his life changes when he befriends an Irish scullery maid who shares his love of books and education. He also meets a former missionary to China and her niece, and with their help, Hoi Wing begins to learn English and wins a chance to achieve his greatest dream: attending secondary school.
From the bestselling authors of I Only Read Murder, a side-splitting mystery of epic movie-of-the-week proportions

Miranda Abbott will once again be a star. This time to be the female lead in an oddly expensive movie of the week, filming right here in Happy Rock! Miranda signs on the dotted line, but her trusty assistant Andrew, a whiz with apps and clouds, thinks this all seems a bit fishy. When Miranda’s co-star makes a grand entrance by crashing through the atrium window at The Duchess Hotel and being very much dead, things go from bad to worse. The great citizens of Happy Rock, including Police Chief Ned Buckley, grumpy bookstore owner and soon to be ex-husband Edgar Abbott, Bea of Bea’s B&B, and the malodorous Owen McCune return to help solve the case in this second Miranda Abbott mystery.
Butler-detective Helen Thorpe returns to help a wannabe influencer get her life in order—and solve the murders of her fellow content creators.

When Buddhist butler Helen Thorpe is loaned out to help Cartier Hightower get her life in order, Helen finds herself working for a young woman entirely unbound by the fetters of good taste or sound judgment. Cartier begins to drag Helen around on the influencer circuit, where neither of them is particularly welcome. Then comes the terrible incident at the EDM nightclub that turns Cartier into a global pariah, at least according to social media.

Soon, Helen finds herself trying to avoid becoming Instafamous while bringing some peace to a girl who very much needs it. This task turns out to be even more impossible when it becomes clear that they have been followed to the lavish Weeping Creek Ranch by a murderer.
Unlike the Rest is the inspirational story of one doctor’s journey through medical school and residency, where she found her calling in the science and in the patients, but also felt compelled to advocate for change. And while the risks in speaking up seemed great, to simply endure was unacceptable.

Today, Oriuwa is a sought-after speaker for advancing equity in medicine and beyond, transformative leadership and mental health awareness, as well as a psychiatry resident and mother of two. Her deeply affecting memoir shares with the reader her love of the practice of medicine and the personal highs and lows she experienced to get there. She draws on her personal and professional experience to share insight and actionable strategies to ignite change and build a more equitable future for all.

LET IT GO

Free Yourself from Old Beliefs and Find a New Path to Joy

Chelene Knight

For readers of Ross Gay and listeners of Therapy for Black Girls, a reflective examination of Black self-love and joy

A warm, candid and essential book that will guide the reader to carve a new path to joy as unique as each individual. Let It Go draws on personal experience and the advice of leaders from various Black communities to share hard-won tools for joy-discovery—tools such as how to say no with love; how to call back activities that feel good; how to reshape communication with those closest to you; how to revise language; and most of all, how to learn to let go in order to redefine what we think joy is.

Organized around the seasons and the natural cycle of reflection and renewal, Let It Go showcases, through conversation and solitary reflection, the broad spectrum of Black realities and reveals the colourful kaleidoscope of joy and your own ways to find it.
KRISTY JACKSON’S work draws inspiration from her Cree and German background and her long list of embarrassing moments.

Comedy and cringe come together in this surprisingly sweet story about learning to face one's fears and building community through one's failures

When someone secretly signs up the school’s most introverted kid, Belinda Houle, to audition for a school play, Belinda turns to her best friend Sally for help. Unlike Belinda, nothing makes Sally cringe. Also, Sally believes herself to be a witch. Belinda doesn't really believe in magic, but if Sally has a spell for confidence—well, it couldn’t hurt to hope. Could it?

What follows the magical ritual is a comical series of tragedies. Belinda learns in the worst way possible that she is allergic to makeup. She’s forced to wear a wig when her hair straightening session goes badly awry. Her ex-best friend tricks her into eating dog food. When Belinda is sprayed by a skunk the day before her audition, she is forced to face the facts: One piece of bad luck can be explained away, but this? This is a straight-up curse!

But how can Belinda battle the very thing she hoped the spell would solve: embarrassment?
Zed and Gabe are back to their treasure-hunting, literary-sleuthing ways in this spooky new adventure!

After some lacklustre cases, the two friends have finally come across a mystery worth their attention: the secrets of Glyndebourne Manor, the haunted home of a late, great opera designer. Every twenty-five years, the Manor hosts a challenge. You have three days and two nights to solve the puzzles in each room before the stroke of midnight. If you solve the puzzles in time, you win a huge pile of money. There’s only one problem: no one has been able to stay in the house for more than a single night.

Cue a whirlwind of scary ghosts, moving walls and cryptic letters. But thanks to Zed’s fearless enthusiasm and Gabe’s encyclopedic knowledge of theatre, they might be able to survive and maybe even right some past wrongs.
